Sarah is a young woman who has always felt like an outsider. She doesn't fit in with her peers, and she has a strained relationship with her parents. When her brother, Cody, returns home from prison, Sarah is forced to confront her past and the mistakes she made that led to his incarceration.

Cody is a troubled young man who has been in and out of trouble his entire life. He's trying to turn his life around, but he's haunted by his past. Sarah and Cody's road trip is a chance for them to reconnect and to try to understand each other better.

As they travel across the country, Sarah and Cody learn more about themselves and each other. They face challenges along the way, but they also find moments of joy and connection. Through their journey, they discover the importance of family, forgiveness, and second chances.

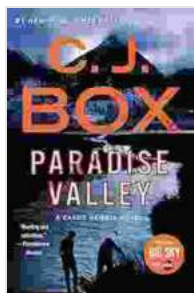

Cassie Dewell's 'Highway' is a beautifully written and moving novel about the complexities of family relationships and the power of redemption. It's a story that will stay with you long after you finish reading it.
